THREE HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Today

Don't Judge by Bumps.
A Real Airplane.
Beating the Pawbrokers.
Marvelous Caterpillar.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.)

UNLESS Gov. Hardman interferes, Georgia will send a woman to the electric chair. The governor feels that the woman is guilty, basing his opinion partly on his study of phrenology. The woman may be guilty of murder. But should Georgia be guilty of killing a woman?

That is the important question. Phrenology and its bumps are often deceptive.

GERMANY is building, secretly, an airplane such as Henry Ford described and planned to build, more than a year ago.

The German plane, 150 feet wide, carries 12 high-power engines and has sleeping quarters for 33 people.

The 12 engines are of British construction, "Jupiter motors," and this first real "giant plane," called "Dorner 10," will run between Germany and South America, stopping at the Azores, attaining a speed of 150 miles an hour, and carrying fuel for a 2,500-mile flight. A real flying machine.

HIGH finance does not lack courage, putting the interest rate on money to 9 per cent yesterday.

The legal limit even for pawnbrokers is 12 per cent, and they have to take care of the old overcoat and keep the moth out of it after making the loan.

These usurious profits are due primarily to action taken by the Federal Reserve. Bankers follow suit to make all they can for stockholders.

And Wall street banks chafe on regular business loans, having nothing to do with stock speculation, a rate that is plain usury and against the law.

ALL this ought to interest President Coolidge, his federal reserve board being responsible for a condition that makes this country ridiculous in the eyes of European countries that manage finances honestly.

WHEN Gov. Smith gets back from the corn belt, he ought to investigate the Wall Street usury wave.

He is in no way responsible for it and has no control of federal reserve or national banks. But usury violates the law of New York state, and he, as governor, might like to know just how and why his Republican friends are transforming banks into pawn shops.

INTERESTING news for farmers and all that eat comes from the Santa Fe railroad, via G. W. Reid.

A caterpillar tractor on the California Packing corporation ranch at San Leandro, Cal., worked for 408 hours without stopping, beating the world's nonstop tractor record by 168 hours.

In less than 20 days the big tractor, not even stopping as drivers were changed, ploughed 1,260 acres of land (Continued on page eight, Col. four)

YOM KIPPUR SERVICES HERE

Jewish-owned Stores Will be Closed Monday.

Jewish-owned stores in the East Liverpool district will be closed Monday in observance of Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement and most sacred of all days in the Jewish calendar.

The holiday will begin with sundown Sunday and will end with sundown on Monday. Special services in keeping with the day will be held by both the reformed and orthodox Jewish congregations here.

Services at the Bnai Israel temple, Fifth and Monroe streets, will be held at 8 o'clock Sunday night and again at 10 o'clock Monday morning. Jesse Ross, student at the Hebrew Union college, Cincinnati, will conduct both services.

Opening services at the Sons of Jacob synagogue, East Third street, will be held at 6 o'clock Sunday night. Services on Monday at 7:30 a. m. will be followed by a memorial service at 11 o'clock when tribute will be paid to the men who died on the battlefields.

The concluding service will be held at 8:15 o'clock Sunday night. Rabbi Ephraim Hirsch will be in charge.

The Jewish Day of Atonement, or Yom Kippur, found its beginning in the days when the temple stood in Jerusalem and Israel dwelt in Palestine, the offering of special sacrifices comprised the chief ceremonial of the day. The purpose was to bring man to atone for his sins.

With the destruction of the temple and the exile of the Jewish people, the procedure of the observance of this holy day changed, but the significance of the Day of Atonement grew in meaning and value in Jewish life.

According to Jewish tradition, God sealed the fate of every creature on this day, for it was the culmination of the penitential period which the New Year's day ushers in. The idea underlying the Day of Atonement strikes a sounding chord within the heart of the Jew, and from year to year serves to reawaken within him the purpose of Judaism.

ONE KILLED, TWO DYING IN TAXI WAR

DRIVERS FIGHT WITH GUNS FOR SUPREMACY IN CHICAGO ZONE

Crank is Used to Slug Rival in Theater District.

SUSPECT HELD

Battle Follows Order to Move Away From Cab Stand.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Guns spat in Chicago today when one man was instantly killed and two others were probably fatally wounded in a taxi drivers' war for supremacy in the south-side theater district here.

Eugene Thivierge is the dead man. Bernard Reichter, wounded in the fray, is under arrest in connection with the shooting, while police are searching for his roommate, Robert Mooney, who is believed to have fired the shot that killed Thivierge.

According to information gathered by police the fight started when Reichter and Mooney, not in their driver's uniforms and riding in rented cars, ordered rival cab drivers to move away from a cab stand in front of the Granada cafe.

The drivers objected and an argument ensued. Reichter jumped from his car to give battle with a starting crank. He was slugged by a rival driver and several shots were fired. Thivierge dropped to the ground and died instantly.

TWO HURT WHEN AUTO HITS POLE

J. S. Smallwood, Broadway, colored barber, was lacerated on the face and right hand, while Lester Freeman, white, Fourth street, sustained a shoulder injury when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a telephone pole near the state line at 8:45 o'clock last night.

The two men were enroute to Smiths Ferry, Freeman, at the wheel of the car, claims that he was blinded by the headlights of a street car and failed to see the telephone pole.

Smallwood was taken to the office of Dr. W. A. Hobbs where his injuries were dressed. Freeman required no medical attention. The car, which was badly damaged was taken to the Stevenson service station, West Ninth street. Captain Conley and Patrolman Smith investigated the crash.

BAN ON FOSTORIA SCHOOL UPHELD

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 22.—Official sanction for reinstatement of Fostoria high school into the Ohio High School Athletic association had been denied the school it was learned here today following a meeting here of the board of directors of the association and P. E. Baird, principal, and L. A. Dudahn, superintendent of Fostoria schools, last night.

Fostoria's suspension from participation in athletic contests with other members of the association will continue until Jan. 1, next, the board decided after hearing the school officials' plea. Fostoria high school was suspended last April for "seeking to bring in outside students to play on its athletic teams," according to H. R. Townsend, commissioner of the O. H. S. A. A.

GLOBE HOPPER'S PLANE WRECKED

MARSEILLES, France, Sept. 22.—George H. Storch, of Seattle, Wash., who recently hopped off at Southampton, Eng., to make a 25,000 mile flight round the world, came to disaster here today. Just after he had hopped off for Bagdad his plane crashed and was completely destroyed. The American was not injured.

MISSION CHIEF

DR. E. A. ODELL, MISSION HEAD, SPEAKS HERE

West Indian Worker Visits Presbyterian Churches.

FOUR ADDRESSES

Emmanuel Congregation Plans Dinner in His Honor.

The Rev. Edward A. Odell, D. D., New York, director of the department of West Indies of the Presbyterian Board of National Missions, will speak in four Presbyterian churches in the East Liverpool district during the three-day period beginning tomorrow.

The Rev. Dr. Odell, who will discuss missionary work, will speak in the First Presbyterian church at 11 a. m. tomorrow and in the Second Presbyterian church at 7:30 p. m. He will also be the guest of honor at a covered-dinner in the Emmanuel Presbyterian church, Park boulevard, at 6:30 p. m. Monday, and on Tuesday night will be at the Curry Memorial Presbyterian church, West Eighth street.

With the grouping of the work in the three islands into the West Indies department in 1924, Dr. Odell came to the Presbyterian board in New York city. In connection with this, he represents the Board of National Missions in Latin America which serves the need of 40 denominations.

It is Dr. Odell's conviction that the colonial policy of the United States in Latin America has in the main been right. He believes that the natives should be trained as rapidly as possible in the carrying of the responsibility of their own religious welfare. Under Dr. Odell's administration the complete direction of the 33 Presbyterian churches and some 100 unorganized churches in the islands.

GENEVA REJECTS PARLEY PROPOSAL

GENEVA, Sept. 22.—The third committee of the League of Nations today rejected Germany's proposal that a disarmament conference be called at the end of 1928. The question of calling such a conference now rests with the league itself.

Republican "Board of Strategy" Acts to End "Whispering Campaign" Against Hoover

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The Republican party's "Board of Strategy" today considered steps to end the "whispering campaign" being conducted by unidentified agencies against the candidacy, Herbert Hoover.

The Hoover advisers acted a month ago to prevent Republican attacks on Governor Alfred E. Smith by issuing orders that an affirmative campaign, based on the Republican party's record, its policies and issues, should be conducted by their workers in the states. Then, Hubert Work, the Republican national chairman, issued a statement denouncing all whispering attacks, its purpose being to stop whispers against Smith. Now the Hoover advisers plan to stop whispers against the Republican nominee.

Hoover himself will do nothing about these attacks. Unlike Governor Smith, it is said, he believes a party nominee personally should Contribute to Relief Fund.

The bankers voted a $100 contribution to the storm sufferers of Porto Rico and Florida. The contribution will be sent to the national Red Cross.

Approximately 200 persons were seated at the dinner given at 1:30 o'clock at which W. E. Wells, Newell pottery manufacturer and president of the Potters National bank, was host. Oscar D. Miller, Massillon, president. The Rev. Frederic A. Dean, (Continued on page three, Col. one)

PLAN TO SURFACE ST. CLAIR ROAD

Last surface treatment for the Lincoln highway between the St. Clair-Madison township line, near the Chamber of Commerce airport, will be applied next week. County Surveyor Lloyd Kirk announced today.

The state highway department plans to reconstruct the brick section of the highway in Madison township next year and also widen the road in Liverpool township. The city will be required to relay the water mains in the road when these improvements are started.

The highway will be straightened in the bend just north of Rock Camp. A reverse curve in the road near "Hill Deadening" is also to be eliminated.

SOLICITOR ASKS GARAGE REMOVAL

Solicitor Frank Hoover has filed a petition in common pleas court, Lisbon, asking for an order compelling Thomas Leak to remove a garage which is alleged to be obstructing Ferguson alley at Bradshaw avenue. Hoover filed the petition at the direction of city council.

GANNA FIGHTS FOR GEMS

Ganna Walska, above, heard some bad news when customs authorities decided that she must pay tax of 90 per cent. on her $2,500,000 worth of jewels if she remained in America as announced. Neither the opera singer nor her wealthy husband, Harold F. McCormick, of Chicago, were disturbed over the ruling.

Girl "Hitch-Hiker," 18, Denies Murder Charge

Miss Loveda Boyle, Red-haired Divorcee Pleads Not Guilty in Akron Court.

AKRON, O., Sept. 22.—Miss Loveda Boyle, the 18-year-old red-haired divorcee who shot and fatally wounded Robert McCormick, Akron automobile salesman, last week, was arraigned in municipal court here today, entered a plea of not guilty, and was held to the county grand jury without bail. The arraignment was conducted by Municipal Judge Gordon Davies. Miss Boyle's attorney, Walter Herbruck, entered a plea of not guilty. The young defendant was dressed plainly and said nothing during the arraignment.

Yesterday she was removed from the county jail and spent the night in the home of Mrs. Greta Footman, county probation officer. She returned there from municipal court today. The county grand jury is expected to take up consideration of her case Monday.

While "hitch-hiking" her way back from Okmulgee, Okla., to her home in Oil City, Pa., she was picked up in an automobile near here.

The car was occupied by McCormick and another man. McCormick made improper advances, she says, and when he refused to heed her warnings she shot him. He died in a hospital here a week ago with a bullet wound in the abdomen. Miss Boyle continued to Oil City and on learning of McCormick's death confessed the shooting and was brought back here.

CROMAR FACTORY FINISHED OAK FLOORING

Start with one room this year

Take, for instance, your dining room—or your living room. Certainly you would enjoy the charm of the bright, lustrous hardwood floor. Nor could your guests fail to sense the air of immaculate trimness it lends the entire room.

To install a CROMAR Hardwood Floor right over the worn, softwood in that room will take just one day. And, though a better floor, it will cost you less than the ordinary hardwood floor. CROMAR is finished entirely by patented machinery at the factory—that's the reason. Finished before it's laid. That eliminates all expensive and less efficient scraping, polishing and hand-finishing, and saves days and days of waiting.

There are many other advantages—the easy cleaning, for example. You ought to know them all. Phone for booklets.

GOV. SMITH'S TRAIN SPEEDS INTO COLORADO

Democratic Nominee Speaks Tonight in Denver.

WEST APPLAUDS

Crowds Greet Campaign Special on Trip Across Kansas.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

GARDEN CITY, KAN., EN ROUTE WITH GOVERNOR SMITH TO DENVER, Sept. 22.—Emerging from the corn and wheat belt, where tremendous crowds have greeted his every appearance during the first week of his western tour, Gov. Smith swung into Colorado today.

It is one of the western states on the Smith tour that the Democrats are hopeful of carrying in November, despite the fact that it has gone approximately 60,000 Republican in the last two national campaigns.

Tonight in Denver, Governor Smith will deliver the third major speech of his western swing. It probably will deal with the so-called power trust, with special emphasis laid upon the activities of the public utilities in "poisoning" the public school system against public ownership, as brought out in the congressional investigation still in progress.

The outpourings of people in Kansas inspired some of the Kansas leaders who boarded the train to lay claim to the state in the name of the Democratic party. But the sober judgment of non-partisan observers was that, notwithstanding the crowds that came out to see the Smith special, Kansas is Republican and is likely to remain so in November.

Oklahoma was said by the same observers to be a toss-up, with conditions getting better for the Democrats. Governor Smith pulled out of Oklahoma City with the cheering assurance from state leaders that he had "won the state" by his spectacular assault on the religious issue, but these claims were pooh-poohed by the opposition.

The Kansans were sufficiently enthusiastic to draw Gov. Smith from the train for the first time at Wichita, the former home of Gen. Henry J. Allen, director of publicity for the Republican national committee. A speaking platform had been improvised at Wichita and so enthusiastic was the greeting of the thousands who surrounded the station there that the governor climbed down from his car and took the applause of the crowd from the platform erected in his honor.

WILLIAM HAINES AT AMERICAN

Superstitions of the vaudeville stage come in for one of the most interesting episodes in William Haines' starring picture, "Excess Baggage," which opens a four-day engagement at the American theatre, Monday.

For example, Neely Edwards, the "hooper" in the production, never fails to spit on the wings before he starts on the stage to do his act. To fail to do so would result in certain misfortune—or so he believes.

Haines as the slack-rope walker has his own personal superstition that he doesn't dare to do his act unless his wife is waiting at the foot of the rope to watch him doing his "slide for life." Without her he knows he will fall.

Many other old superstitions of the stage are shown in the picture. For example, in most other walks of life a black cat is considered the height of misfortune but when a black cat walks across the stage it is considered the height of good luck.

According to research conducted by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer before making the picture, no theatre dressing room shown is permitted to have drapes in it. Drapes in dressing rooms are considered very unlucky.

It is also considered unfortunate to whistle in a dressing room. All trunks used by the actors who are supposedly theatrical artists, must be square—a "camel-back" trunk is unlucky.

When a company rehearses, the last word of every act is never spoken until after the premiere performance. It would fix the show.

Help Hurricane Sufferers

Alarmed by reports of destitution, grave health problems and fear of outbreaks of epidemic in the devastated zones, the Red Cross has called upon East Liverpool to do its "bit" for sufferers in hurricane-swept Porto Rico and Florida.

John Barton Payne, chairman, has appealed to the Rev. A. H. O'Brien, chairman, and Mrs. John Bowers, secretary, of the Ceramic City chapter, for $1,225 as its quota in a proposed minimum fund of $5,000,000.

According to a survey made by Red Cross representatives, 400,000 persons are threatened with starvation in the West Indies, while 15,000 families require emergency aid and, later, rehabilitation in Florida.

No city-wide canvass will be launched according to chapter officers, but an appeal has been made for voluntary contributions. Checks should be mailed to W. E. Dunlap, cashier at the First National bank and treasurer of the Red Cross unit.

East Liverpool, realizing the grave need of the homeless in the stricken zones, should make a generous response.

Seek New Sugar Cane

After three months of exploration by airplane, by canoe and on foot in the tropical districts of Papua and New Guinea, in areas some of which are inhabited by primitive tribes of pygmies and head hunters, Dr. E. W. Brandes of the United States department of agriculture, has sent word to his office that his party has concluded its work and plans to come out of the wilderness within the next week or so.

The explorations of Dr. Brandes and his party have yielded 167 varieties of sugar-cane, gathered in the native home of the plant. These varieties will be used in tests and for interbreeding in the department's experimental plants devoted to the development of sugar-cane varieties resistant to damage by mosaic and other diseases.

The party led by Dr. Brandes, who is in charge of the sugar plants office, bureau of plant industry, was limited in number to four to favor exploration by airplane. Travel by the party included thousands of miles by seaplane, seven hundred miles by canoe, and four hundred miles on foot. The explorers covered every district of Papua and New Guinea.

One variety of sugar-cane collected proved to be a new species. It is a hard, straight cane, growing to a height of about 33 feet.

It is the purpose of these explorations and tests which will be made at Washington, to bring about, if possible, a new sugar-cane, in the belief that much of the loss which the sugar-cane growers of the south suffer from plant disease may be eradicated, with resultant economical benefit to the growers. The federal government, under recent administrations, leaves nothing undone which will in any way enhance the development of plant husbandry or animal husbandry or general farm improvement and development. That is one reason why American farmers and specialists are so far ahead of their contemporaries in foreign lands.

Festive Season Near

One has but to look about to find proof that the season is changing rapidly. Autumn is coming on apace. Cape Cod cranberries are on the market. Winter sausages are to be found in the butcher shops. And now steam has been turned into piles in apartment and office buildings.

When the radiator begin their pounding as the steam flows into them, chasing out the cold air which has collected during the summer, one instinctively puffs one's coat up and buttons the vest. That is a sign of the approach of cold weather.

The cranberries and the winter sausage are another. There have been griddle cakes all summer—with sausage. But they have not been griddle cakes like those which come from the new flour, and they have not been nearly so tasty as they are when there is a piece of fresh winter sausage to go with them.

As for cranberries—everyone knows cranberries are another sign of the approach of the festive season—Thanksgiving and Christmas. Better prepare the old overcoat for service. It may come in handy some evening—or early morning.

Books For Explorers

What to do with odd moments on one of the world's greatest organized adventures was a question that confronted the leaders of the Bryd Antarctic expedition. "Reading," was the answer, and thereupon came one of those chance that are so often imagined—"the ten books I would choose for a desert library" and other lists that are chosen for imaginary isolations.

Here was just such an opportunity and the library was to consist of 1,000 volumes. They were duly chosen and are now on their way to the base of supplies at New Zealand but what selections were made? What books were felt to be of value for two years' separation from the world of people and events.

Fiction predominated, with volumes of spirited adventure much in evidence. The manly and vigorous tales of Stevenson, Dumas, Conrad, Cooper and Kipling were especially popular. All the works of Shakespeare, however, were included; and there were the Greek and Latin classics packed together with "Casey at the Bat" and the appropriate "Snowbound" of Whittier.

There were volumes of history, science, politics, and philosophy by moderns and ancients. "The Best Rube Jokes" appear side by side with "The Psychology of Suicide," and the "Adventure of Baron Munchausen."

It is interesting now to know what books have been selected as the companions of these adventurers, but it is far more interesting to speculate upon which books will be read and reread while others are comparatively neglected. Will the men go strongly for the robust tales of romance where heroes are whiskey from one danger into another with breathless rapidity, or will these men who are themselves participating in a great adventure turn to the quiet calm of philosophy and reason? It would probably seem rather tame for the men who are daily confronted with genuine dangers to bother about imaginary ones. Their relief would probably come in humor or in thought.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 21.—Recently there has been established a memorial which parallels the work of the man it honors. Col. William C. Gorgas by his monumental achievement in ridding the Panama Canal Zone of fever and plague overcame one of the chief obstacles to the construction of the waterway linking the Atlantic and Pacific. Moreover, in doing so he rendered service to this country and to the world. The monument bearing his name is not alone of stone, but is a living dedication to his memory in its service for the United States and other nations.

Perhaps humanity should be named first in the beneficiaries of the work of Gorgas and of his memorial, for its sufferings are to be not only alleviated, but prevented. To this end the United States has made an annual appropriation of $50,000 toward the establishment and maintenance of a research laboratory at Ancon. In the name of the man who made Panama a healthful place to live and work, a campaign is under way to cure and prevent tropical diseases.

If in 24 years of American occupation the Canal Zone can become a thriving country the prophecies for its future may well be rosy. In less than a quarter of a century a successful system of sanitation has been introduced, the canal itself constructed, government established, and commerce developed.

The Panama canal fills a dual role, being an asset in the national defense and in commercial enterprise. It has been estimated that $113,000,000 of the total investment can be charged to national defense and that the remaining $375,000,000 invested there represents commercial capital. Not charging $8,250,000 which would be the amount of annual interest, the total earnings are nearly $92,250,000 in excess of the total expenses. The net revenue last year was almost $18,225,000, so it is possible that in the course of time past deficits can be wiped out.

Because tolls paid by ships form the greatest source of revenue it is interesting to note some of the superlatives in traffic. Up until this spring nearly 46,000 vessels had paid for the privilege of going through the canal, and another 4000 had gone through free. All commercial traffic pays for the privilege of going through the canal. Government-owned ships of the United States, Panama, Colombia, and those which are going through to Balboa for repairs the only vessels which do not pay toll.

The year in which there was the largest commercial traffic was 1927 when there were more than 6000 transits. December of that year was the month holding the record for number of transits and amount of toll, $59,400 almost $2,500,000 respectively. In one day of October, 1927, the same class of vessels going in both directions was 33. Back in 1925 the high point was reached when 57 government and commercial vessels made the transit in one day.

The United States destroyer Lawrence was the Nurmi of ships, making the crossing in four hours ten minutes. The largest ship to go from Cristobal to Balboa in the U. S. S. Saratoga, an airplane carrier. It has a length of 888 feet and a beam of 107.5 feet. That the Panama canal has been an asset to the world as well as to the United States is demonstrated by the fact that in the last five years 28 countries have been represented by ships in the cross-canal journey. More than a quarter were vessels from Great Britain. It is not surprising that American ships numbered a little over half of the total. Intercoastal trade is a busy enterprise as shown by the fact that 42 per cent of the cargo was so bound.

Some 8000 miles have been neatly clipped off the journey from New York to San Francisco by use of the shortcut via the canal. This time and mile saver cuts nearly 6000 miles off the trip from Liverpool to the Golden Gate.

The Panama canal has justified its builders' faith, triumphing over the discouragements of its construction days and the confusion of a consequent let-down of shipping at the time of the World war. It was built between two wars and was the scene of a peace-time battle against earth and disease. The aggressive campaign was begun there after popular imagination was stimulated to the appreciation of the necessity of such a shortcut when the Oregon was forced to make a 15,000 mile trip to join the fleet at the time of the Spanish-American war.

Digging through mountains, fighting slides of earth, combating disease which attacked the men, building a system of locks and subsidiary equipment that taxed the ingenuity of engineers, after 400 years the dream of Columbus and Balboa for a westward passage to India was realized. It was opened to the world in 1914 just at the time when nations became engrossed in the old kind of warfare, killing, and consequently did not receive the patronage naturally in order.

In spite of the dropping off of trade during this period, the canal stands today as a paying proposition, which in the course of years will become even more profitable. Not only is it an asset financially, but as an example of government management and scientific achievement it is a mark in the world.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22.—The San Franciscan is a home boy. He puts about his roses and trails the lawnmower. The dank, sunless flat is unknown. Everybody has a patch of green and a jerk of flowers. The appearance of poverty is an unknown quantity. Even the humblest cottage is marked by flaming vines and sweet smelling shrubs.

Due to a fairly even climate, gardens and landscape plantings furnish the kaleidoscopic coloring of a gypsy's scarf. Homes in Berkeley and Del Monte are as fine as those on Long Island. And they offer an architectural distinctiveness—a Belasco setting come to life.

Such structural conceptions are seen nowhere else in America save in California or perhaps on the movie screen. There are villas with cool, winding palm lined roadways, castles with terraced lawns and exquisite chateaux perched on dizzy cliffs with the blue of the Pacific sparkling below.

In San Francisco and in Oakland across the bay are those inviting and velvety lawns glistening in a dewy splendor. As well as patios, rose bowers, tea gardens, fountains, studded parterres, sweeps of hill side terraces and other creative efforts that distinguish a home loving city.

In such atmosphere people naturally live more leisurely. The galloping tempo of the eastern city is missing. The successful merchant may breakfast in flannels, with a fresh rose in his lapel, on an umbrella shaded portico. Japanese and Chinese servants stand about in white duck. Like a music show.

Speed and lack of time make New York a city of cigarette smokers—a few quick inhalations and they flip it away. Out here men have time to luxuriate in the aroma of a big fat cigar. Luncheon is not a mad bolt and a frantic rush back to the office.

This easy manner fascinates a fidgety New Yorker. He begins to pity Broadway and its anti-scurry. People have a little time for the outdoors each day. On the city's ocean front is an eight-mile line of cliffs and beach. They are never deserted. Indeed the city seems always at play get it does its work.

San Francisco is ever shopping.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

To imagine you are sick is next door to being sick. So far as the immediate victim is concerned, it is just as bad as being sick. To the family and associates imaginary illness is worse than the real thing, because usually it is accompanied with greater vocal complaints and demands.

There is a disturbance called by the doctors "neurasthenia" or "psychoasthenia." The former word is from the Greek and means "debility of the nerves," the other means "debility of the mind."

This ailment is an obstinate functional disturbance of the nervous system. That is, there is no destruction of tissue, no visible or measurable disease, no actual change in the body or any of its parts. But for one reason or another the body or its parts do not function, do not operate, do not work as they should.

We speak of the victim of this disagreeable condition as a "neurasthenic." The neurasthenic can't work, at least he can't work long, at his usual mental or physical job. He tires out almost at once, even though he may begin the day in good spirits and determined to apply his powers. For one reason or another, many symptoms, all included in this unhappy state. The first is a tremendous exaggeration of himself, if you know what I mean. How he feels, what tender solicitude should be given him, what wealth of attention should be showered upon him—these are all he thinks about. You must listen to his tale of woe or he is hurt to the verge of tears.

The victim may suffer from one of the many "phobias" or fears—fear of a crowd, fear of a high building, fear of an east wind, fear of death, fear of some particular disease, fear of financial failure, fear of something.

He loses his will power. He cannot concentrate his thoughts. He has headache, backache, legache or some other ache. He can't eat and can't sleep. In short, he is a total wreck.

Of course, one cannot get this way without some substantial cause. It may be that overwork or overworry, some continued mental strain, or sudden emotional shock, may be responsible. But more likely chronic indigestion, absorption of bodily poisons, some hidden disease, is at the bottom of the trouble.

Every such patient should be carefully studied to see what is wrong. If there is such an unhappy person in your household, help the doctor by thorough study of the habits and symptoms.

Eye strain, with the needed correction of vision or muscle balance, is a factor that must not be overlooked. Habits of sex, habits of eating and drinking, habits of hygiene—all these are important.

The simple life, simple eating, recreation, entertainment are vital to all of us. They are doubly significant in dealing with a neurasthenic. Good sense and good living will help to avoid all ailments.

Radio Television.

For the first time, a radio television drama has been broadcast from a studio in Schenectady, New York, and picked up on a receiving instrument. That is, it was picked up in part—some of the visual program being lost somewhere in the ether between the sending and receiving points. However, those who watched the tiny screen—it was no larger than a man's hand—were able to discern momentary flashes of recognizable human features and gestures. No "television set" except the one in the next room got even that much.

It would be idle to predict, as yet, that this minute degree of success points to the coming of radio television on a scale and with a degree of clearness which would make it feasible as a means of entertainment, either before audiences, or with private receiving sets in the home. Until scientists of international fame in this particular field cease to express their uncertainty as to whether this will ever be made feasible, we cannot encourage our readers to look forward to such a development in the visible future.

If it were a case in which all that is needed is the mere technical perfecting of mechanism and methods already in hand, one might be justified in rather confident prophecies of complete success; but such does not appear to be the situation. There are still gaps to cross, in the opinion of authorities whom we cannot discredit, which are not likely to be bridged without new discoveries that may never be made.

The mere fact that we would like to have something not yet discovered does not prove, unfortunately, that the thing, or principle, is in existence and merely waiting its discoverer. We shall welcome a practical radio television if it ever comes; but no basis for confident expectation has yet been laid.—Columbus Dispatch.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy.
 Sometimes Someone Else Has An Idea, Too.

Haven't you too much faith in your own judgment?

As a result are you not losing many opportunities to learn profitably?

Perhaps you are blinded by the fact that you do possess unusual skill or ability, so that you give little consideration to what others have to offer.

And you have been fairly successful in your line, at that.

But success does not indicate that it is wholly due to your own ability.

Perhaps you have been fortunate in having weak opposition.

If you had had a worthy foe or rival in your business things might have been much harder for you and you would have less conceit.

If you are putting your judgment against all those by whom you are surrounded you cannot be as big as you think.

The biggest business man and the most successful business house in the country does not turn down a suggestion or the work of another without giving it full consideration.

Employees give more thought and do better work where their ideas are given some attention and no matter how menial a man's job he likes to feel that his ideas are at least worth a welcome reception.

FARM AND CITY CLOSER, FESS TELLS OHIOANS

Senator Speaks at Road Opening at Chancellersville.

SEES PROSPERITY

Reviews Agriculture Situation of Last Few Years.

ZANESVILLE, O., Sept. 22.—Business and agriculture are closer together today than ever before said U. S. Senator Simon D. Fess who delivered the principal address today at a celebration of the opening of the Chancellersville road, at Chancellersville, near here, today.

Reviewing the farm situation of the past few years, Fess pointed out that there will be "an upward trend of rural prosperity." He attributed this to the modern use of business methods in solving the various problems facing agriculture.

"Today, we are in the longest period of sustained business prosperity in our national history," said Fess. "To continue it safe from the cycles of depression is the chief concern of the leaders in business. It is, also, their concern that agriculture find an ultimate solution for its various problems. Business and agriculture are interdependent for their mutual welfare. As one prospers so does the other."

"The problem of agriculture from the producers' viewpoint is a more equitable distribution of the money the consumer has to pay for farm products," declared Fess. The immediate problem is more control by the farmer over his own market. His need is for a voice in the market control and that he be not compelled to submit to the whim of an unregulated market controlled by speculation. A buyer's market should be changed to a seller's market."

JUDGE MEALS, 56, CLEVELAND, DIES

CLEVELAND, Sept. 22.—Funeral services for former Appellate Judge Walter D. Meals, 56, who died yesterday of cerebral hemorrhage, will be held in the home, it was announced today.

Judge Meals was a colorful figure in Cleveland and northern Ohio Republican politics for many years. Born in Mill Creek, Pa., he came here as a young attorney in 1894, after receiving a law degree at the University of Michigan.

He was once a law partner of Maurice Maschke, Cleveland Republican chieftain, and served for five years as judge of the court of appeals. He was also a leader in civic affairs and for 10 years was president of the Cleveland Automobile club. His wife, Mrs. Gertrude Whittier Meals, was with him when he died yesterday. There were no children.

SUBMARINE S-17 IS REFLOATED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The submarine S-17, which ran aground Thursday off Panama, was refloated late yesterday and arrived at the Coe Solo, Canal Zone naval base today, the navy department announced.

The grounding of the submarine caused no injury to the crew.

pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, pronounced the invocation. Souvenir plates were given each guest by Wells.

Wells delivered the address of welcome. The response was made by Robert R. Woods, cashier of the Wayne County National bank, Wooster.

Arthur B. Taylor, Lorain, president of the Ohio Bankers' association, in his address, "Our Duty as Bankers," told of the plan of the state organization in urging the adoption of legislation establishing regional supervisors in the state who would give every bank at least two examinations annually.

"We are entering an era of fewer but stronger banks," said Taylor. Bankers in every county were urged to organize and to co-operate in working for the confidence of the public in their financial matters.

Legislative Problems Discussed. "Legislative Problems" were discussed by Charles H. Mylander, Columbus, secretary of the Ohio Bankers' association. He discussed the taxation question which he declared to be the most important issue facing state legislation when it meets in January. He urged creation of state police force to protect the rural districts.

John A. Sheets, cashier of the First National bank of Willoughby, read a paper on "Safe Deposit Practices." He was followed by W. S. Hayden of the Hayden, Miller & Co., Cleveland, who recently returned from Europe. Hayden discussed economic conditions of European countries and their effect upon American banking and finance.

Wives of many of the bankers who attended the East Liverpool meeting were entertained at bridge by a group of local bankers' wives during the afternoon.

Bankers from Chicago, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and other cities attended the meeting. Among them were: Charles E. Register, bond department, D. Y. LaFever, assistant vice-president, and A. R. Boethel, assistant treasurer, of the Union Trust Company, Cleveland; William H. Fawcett, assistant cashier, First National Bank, Pittsburgh; and W. H. Butler, assistant cashier of the Continental National bank, Chicago.

MRS. SMITH HAS CAMPAIGN ROLE

EN ROUTE WITH GOVERNOR SMITH TO DENVER, Sept. 22.—Mrs. Almed E. Smith wife of the Democratic candidate for president, for the first time in her life has become a campaigner.

This housewife and mother of five children who has always said when asked about politics, "That's Al's business" throughout the trip through Oklahoma and Kansas was the busiest person on the rear platform of the Smith special train. She was passing out "Vote for S. M." campaign buttons. And very few refused the offering.

At every stop made in Kansas there was a bunch of American beauty roses for Mrs. Smith. She seemed to enjoy the novelty of breaking into politics.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Profit-taking in the motor stocks and specialties at the beginning of trading today caused some irregularity in the listed market, but aggressive buying proceeded in the copper and other sections of the market, the oils in particular forcing ahead under the stimulus of active demand.

The favorable statement of President Alfred Sloan of General Motors corporation was so well known in advance in the financial district that ready to sell to the public today. General Motors' brilliant run-up yesterday's brilliant run-up were general Motors was freely offered around the 217 level, and selling continued with the decline in price to 215. Wall Street believes that a 100 per cent stock dividend is the least the directors will authorize, as this alone would bring the new selling price of the stock to approximately $100 a share, the desired range for an investment stock.

JAWARSKI PAL IS NABBED IN DETROIT RAID

Another Man and Two Women Also in Custody.

RIOT GUNS USED

Police Learn Identity of Fourth Suspect News Robbery.

DETROIT, Sept. 22.—A confederate of Paul Jawarski was nabbed at the point of riot guns in a raid today on a Hamtramck restaurant.

Another man, his wife, and Mrs. Helen Kraft, 23, wife of Harry Kraft, whom Paul Jawarski named as one of his accomplices in the robbery of the Detroit News, also were in custody today.

With the arrests today, police said, they have learned the identity of at least one other of the News robbery thugs.

Two Held for Murder. Alex Rzeuski, and his wife, Mary, were arrested last night. Rzeuski is held on a technical charge of murder. His wife and Mrs. Kraft, who was taken into custody at her home, are held for investigation.

Ever since the News holdup on June 6, the police said, they have been searching for John Michinda, 29, alias John Patrick. They accuse him as the "finger man" for the Jawarski gang; that is, the man who mapped out details of buildings to be robbed. He is a bosom friend of Jawarski, according to police.

Last night police located Michinda in a restaurant at Joseph Campau, near Edwin, in Hamtramck. They were armed with riot guns, fearing a battle, but Michinda offered no resistance.

Names Four Gang Members. According to police, Rzeuski talked freely concerning the News holdup and named four members of the gang, but denied that he himself was in the holdup. The police, however, charged him with murder. He said there were six men in the holdup, but that he knew only four of them by name and the other two by sight.

The holdup was planned in his home in Littlefield avenue, Rzeuski admitted, and the red bags in which the shotguns were carried into the News building, were more-proof cedar bags taken from the clothes closet in his home.

TOLEDO FLIERS VISIT AIRPORT

Aircraft Corporation Owners Inspect C of C. Field.

G. O. Wells, Carl Kiner and Robert Votaw of the Standard Aircraft corporation and owners of the transcontinental airport at Toledo, conferred here yesterday with the aviation committee of the Chamber of Commerce and also inspected the chamber's airport in Madison township.

The visitors, all licensed airplane pilots, said the airport was well situated and large enough to permit the largest planes to land.

Members of the chamber's committee will go to Toledo next week where they will be guests of the Standard corporation.

NOT satisfied with exiling Trotsky to far-away Turkestan, the Bolshevik government is said by yesterday's London Daily Mail to have organized various attempts on his life.

To organize a great revolution, throwing out the czars, becoming head of the huge Russian army, and then find yourself an exile, in danger of murder, must discourage Communist ardor.

Sharpshooters, evidently not very sharp, tried in vain to shoot Trotsky. Then his house was blockaded and his family unable to get food. Trotsky, well read and philosophical, can find comfort in his recollection of what happened in the French revolution to Danton, Robespierre, Marat and a host of other leaders.

BEATTY AWAITS COURT ORDER

East Liverpool Man Ready to Face Turner Charges.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 22.—The attorney general's office today was in receipt of word from James C. B. Beatty, East Liverpool, that he will come to this city at a time to be fixed by the Franklin county common pleas court and defend himself relative to the suit recently filed by Attorney General Edward C. Turner, who asked that Beatty be required to file a complete expense account with the secretary of state.

Turner claimed that Beatty filed an incomplete statement covering his expenditures during his unsuccessful preprimary campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

The common pleas court a few days ago continued Beatty's case because of his failure to appear.

U. S. COURT FINES TWO OHIOANS

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 22.—Tony De Paol and Andy Cifaldi, both of Bellville, pleaded guilty in federal court here today for violation of the national prohibition act, and were fined $250 each.

Neither De Paol nor Cifaldi were able to pay their fine, and were placed in county jail for 30 days, or until the fine is paid.

Los Angeles "Ape Man" Denies Monstrous Butcheries on Ranch as He Breaks Silence

Gordon Stewart Northcott, Sits in Cell at Vancouver, B. C., Awaiting Extradition to California.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 22.—Gordon Stewart Northcott, Los Angeles "ape man," charged with a series of monstrous human butcheries on his chicken ranch near Los Angeles, broke his silence for the first time since his arrest here today.

While sitting in his cell awaiting extradition to California and the sinister ranch which served as the setting for his alleged whole-sale murders Northcott uttered the first words of his statement of innocence.

"Good God, what awful things to say about a man."

That was the beginning, then in defiant and caustic words, tumbling pell mell in contrast to his previous silence, Northcott dramatically denied the almost incredible charges against him.

Charged with Four Murders. "There was only one reason why I left California," he said. "I simply could not tell my poor little mother of the monstrous things they were accusing me of. If my mother would have known of these charges, it would have killed her."

While young Northcott was stoutly denying his guilt of the child murders a grand jury in Riverside, Calif., formally charged and indicted him with the ruthless butcher of four young boys. One of the victims named was Walter Collins, whose disappearance has brought developments in its wake almost as strange and bizarre as those centering about the so-called "murder farm" owned by Northcott.

Four Others Missing. LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 22.—Three boys and their father who have been missing since August 15, were today thought to have been additional victims of the "Murder Farm" near Riverside, Cal., where police are investigating the weird story that four boys had been mistreated and then hacked to death with a hatchet.

The four are Phil Nelson Scott, 45, of Newark, N. J., and three sons, Claude, 20; Charles, 18 and Albert 12. The quartet are declared to have gone into the house on the "Murder Farm" with the proprietor, Gordon Stewart Northcott, by a neighbor and her son. She never saw them leave the ranch.

Names Woman in Slaying. LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 22.—Calmly telling that Mrs. Sarah Louise Northcott was the actual slayer of Walter Collins in the henhouse of the Wineville murder farm, 15-year-old Sanford Clark apparently fastened at least one slaying on the woman held by Calgary, Alberta, Canada police.

The boy told officers that the woman known as Mrs. Northcott and supposed to be Gordon Stewart Northcott's mother with Stewart and Sanford entered the chicken house at night where Walter Collins slept on a portable canvas cot.

Young Northcott hit the Collins lad on the head with the blunt side of a hatchet, Clark alleges. "Then they made me take a swing with the hatchet," the boy declared, "and then Mrs. Northcott picked up a big ax and hit Walter on the head until it made me sick."

THOMAS F. MCGREGOR, Philadelphia scientist, shows that peaches, fresh picked, put into a can from which air was expelled and nitrogen substituted, were perfectly fresh at the end of six weeks. It is believed that nitrogen will preserve the freshness of all foods, and prevent decay indefinitely.

IDENTIFY OHIO MURDER VICTIM

ZANESVILLE, O., Sept. 22.—Relatives of the man found dead in Norval park here with two bullets in his brain and believed to have been murdered Sept. 13 last, today had identified the slain man as Henry Walbrown, 30, Avella, Washington county, Pa.

Identification was established by means of photographs as Walbrown's widow who arrived from the Pennsylvania city yesterday was not permitted to view the body which was interred here two days ago. It is said the body will be disinterred and taken to Avella for burial.

Walbrown was shot during a fight at the home of Charles White, 50, near here, where a weekend party had been in progress and the body then hidden in a ravine in Norval park, it was said.

Two men at the party, known only as "Chuck" and "Eddie," are being sought throughout Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia in connection with the slaying and a reward has been posted for their apprehension.

A couple of Marblehead, England, have 14 children, all sons.

AMERICAN ISSUE, ANTI-SALOON ORGAN, LASHES GOV. AL SMITH

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 22.—Democratic party leaders here today refused to comment on an editorial in the current issue of the American issue, official organ of the Ohio Anti-Saloon league, which lashed Governor Al Smith as "a wet type of candidate," who "appeals to the sports, jazz and liberal element of our population," and frankly demanded perpetuation of "Anglo-Saxon Protestant domination," thus, according to practical politicians here, thrusting to the fore for the first time the religious phase of the campaign closely following upon Smith's denunciation at Oklahoma City of "religious intolerance."

"If you believe in Anglo-Saxon Protestant domination," the editorial asserted in part, "if you believe in prohibition, its observance and enforcement and if you believe in a further restricted immigration rather than letting down the bars still lower, then, whether you are a Republican or a Democrat, you will vote for Hoover rather than Smith."

CHICAGOAN KILLS SON AND WIFE

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Enraged because his 16-year-old son, Anthony refused to confide in him, Philip Maniglia shot and killed the boy and then turned the gun on his wife, Mary, here today.

A bullet penetrated the woman's left breast just above the heart. She died instantly.

Maniglia fled after the shooting without harming any of the six other children who slept in the three room apartment occupied by his family.

ELEVATOR KILLS OHIO WORKMAN

UHRICHVILLE, O., Sept. 22.—Samuel Sasterich, 18, was dead here today, victim of an industrial tragedy at the Uhrichville Clay company plant near here yesterday.

Sasterich was crushed to death between the company's elevator and the third floor of the shop when he attempted to board the elevator while it was in motion.

NATIVE OHIOAN DIES IN STORM

FINDLAY, O., Sept. 22.—Another native Ohioan, James B. Williamson, 70, formerly of Findlay, was added to the death toll of the Florida hurricane today with the receipt of a message by his sister, Mrs. Benjamin Leaf, to the effect that Williamson had lost his life in the West Palm Beach region.

FIND SUSPECTED OHIO ABSCONDER

CLEVELAND, Sept. 22.—Sought for eight years, since he allegedly absconded with $6,000, Welton Eugene Wheeler, former teller of the Cleveland Trust company, was under arrest today in Oakland, Calif., according to reports reaching here. Pinkerton detectives located Wheeler, working as a clerk in a haberdashery, and under an assumed name, it is reported. Arrangements were being made today to send Cleveland detectives to the coast city to return the fugitive.

JOLSON AND HIS THIRD WIFE SAIL

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Al Jolson embarked on the White Star liner Olympic early today for his Umpteenth trip across the Atlantic and his third cruise on the matrimonial seas.

Occupying the Prince of Wales suite on the liner with the prince of black-face comedians was Jolson's third wife, the former Ruby Keeler, 19, dancer in musical comedies and night clubs. They were married yesterday at Port Chester, N. Y., but news of the marriage was kept secret until they were recognized on the Olympic just before the liner sailed.

SALVADORE MACIEL, MIDLAND, FOUND GUILTY OF SECOND DEGREE MURDER

Jury Returns Verdict in Steel City Case After Three Hours' Deliberation.

BEAVER, Pa., Sept. 22.—Salvatore Maciel, Midland Mexican, is waiting sentence in the Beaver jail today as the result of a verdict of second degree in the death of Juan Orambula in the Steel City on August 14.

This trial, fourth murder case at this term of court, was the shortest on the calendar, occupying but one day. The jury deliberating but three hours.

Maciel pleaded self defense. The defendant, called by Attorney

Robert H. Darragh yesterday afternoon, said he was born in Mexico, where he attended school and college. Maciel is married, his wife and child living in Mexico.

His story regarding the events of the night of August 13 was that he and Arabula Sheel, James Luna, Juan Orambula had spent a good part of the night drinking and playing cards.

When they started home, he said, Orambula called him back and shoved him about, finally rushing at him with his hand on his hip, yelling in the Mexican language, "I'm going to kill you right now." It was then, the defendant said, he pulled a gun from the waistband of his trousers and shot Orambula. He said he believed Orambula intended to shoot him.

He said on cross-examination that he procured the gun from under a big rock in a vacant street near the scene of the shooting about two hours before. He said he had placed it there several days prior, because he wasn't allowed to keep it in his room.

After he shot Orambula, Maciel testified, he fled to the hills back of Midland and in the early morning reached Smiths Ferry, where he took a street car to Steubenville, O. From there he went to Cleveland and then to Fremont, O., where he was captured.

When Jimmy Luna, Maciel's roommate, at Midland, was on the witness stand for the commonwealth, Assistant District Attorney deCastro tried to introduce as evidence a letter alleged to have been written by Maciel while at Fremont, to a friend in Midland, asking for money. Attorney Darragh, however, objected to the letter being admitted and his objection was sustained. There was no evidence the letter was written by Maciel.

NEED MINIMUM OF $5,000,000 IN STORM ZONE

Red Cross Chairman Sends Appeal to All Chapters.

AID PORTO RICO

Fifteen Thousand Families in Florida Ask Relief.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—A minimum of $5,000,000 is needed by the Red Cross to provide aid for the 400,000 hurricane sufferers in Porto Rico and the 15,000 families needing assistance in Florida, John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross, announced today.

Messages have been sent to all chapters, notifying them that the money is needed and asking for contributions.

Henry M. Baker, is the national Red Cross director of disaster relief, now in charge in Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands, and A. L. Schaffer is directing relief in Florida.

Typhoid, measles, influenza and malaria are prevalent in Porto Rico and "literally thousands are sleeping on the ground with no bedding or blankets and existing entirely on unripe fruits blown down," according to a message received at Red Cross headquarters from M. K. Feckford, assistant director of Red Cross relief in Porto Rico. Babies and children are the greatest sufferers and present an "extremely pathetic picture," Feckford said.

One contribution of $1,000 was received today at Red Cross headquarters from Will Rogers, humorist.

Letters To The Editor

Answers Floyd Long.
Chester, W. Va., Sept. 22, 1928.
Editor, Review.
East Liverpool, O.

Dear Sir—
I read the article of a Floyd Long in your paper of last night in which he claims I made statements in a recent communication to you on which he does not agree. In the forefront of his article he could not have been in more harmony with me. I, in my communication, defended freedom of religion and Mr. Long agrees with me in that respect and I had quoted the sixth article, "No religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States," and he agrees with it in his words, "There is no law which bars man from the presidency of the United States because of his religious belief." So far we both agree and it touches on the main issue.

Now then, as to Mr. Long's remark, "I will never vote for a man for president who owes his allegiance to any foreign power or potentate." No Catholic owes his allegiance to any foreign power or potentate in temporal or civil matters but in spiritual matters only. We are obedient to the pope in religious matters only and there is no need of dwelling on this point because it was explained in the papers all over the country. As proof that the pope does not interfere with the temporal affairs of a country I point out Al Smith who is serving his fourth term as governor of New York, and no such interference ever happened. "Actions prove stronger than words."

Relative to the Eighteenth amendment I said, in my communication, in theory the prohibition laws are good and the ones who framed them had the best intentions. I think I agree pretty well with Mr. Long on that point. Of course, I did not call them the best laws of the land because I could not and that is they can not be defended upon their merits. As to the people having their drink at the end of the week before the prohibition laws, they now have it in the beginning of the week also and every day. The further remark of Mr. Long, "The best way for people to make the law a success is to elect men to office who will enforce it." Well, we have had our Republican administration long enough under the prohibition laws and they were not enforced; in fact, growing worse as time goes on. Why then elect men who belong to the same party? Eight years is surely test sufficient for any law. President Coolidge said one time that no law can be enforced upon people if it is not in the minds of the people.

As to the question of Mr. Long, why I included Jews and non-religious with the Catholics, I did it because the Rev. Billy Sunday said this is a Protestant country. Jews and non-religious are no more Protestant than Catholics are and, if the country is Protestant then they feel at home in this country no more than Catholics do.

My main reason for coming out in the paper was because the Rev. Mr. Sunday said, in his talk at Clifton, O.: "Al Smith cannot be elected president because he is a Catholic in a Protestant country." In my communication to the editor of The Review I put the question, since when is this a Protestant country? Church and state are separate and how then can it be Protestant? Mr. Long did not touch upon this main issue and consequently it still stands as a question.

I would be highly pleased to meet Mr. Long and I therefore invite him to come and see me in my residence in Fourth street, Chester. I am always pleased to meet men who will express their views.

WM. J. SAUER.

Scores of motorists fresh from examining and riding in the latest and best cars of the day declare Hudson the supreme performer of their experience.

You will find this Hudson smooth, fast, reliable, brilliant. Its fuel economy is unequalled in cars of its weight and power. Fifteen to eighteen miles per gallon is the average of many thousand tests.

From standing start Hudson takes the full charge of power, mounting smoothly to high speed with a greater rapidity than you have looked for in any car.

It sustains even maximum road speeds with effortless ease; it takes hills as if they were not there.

But for the story of what Hudson will do that you would not ask other cars to do—will you please take the wheel for any test you desire?

Giants And Cards Clash In Key Game For Heydler League Flag

Do or Don't Day at Polo Grounds, for Defeat Will Eliminate McGraw Cohorts

New York Will Stake All on Performance of Fred Fitzsimmons, While St. Louis Will Counter With Clarence Mitchell.

TAKE 1 2 3 —DO OR DON'T—

50re29nv ETAIONN

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—This will be do or don't day at the Polo grounds, with the winning and losing of the 1928 National league pennant practically vested in the result of a single ball game between the St. Louis Cardinals, leading by two games with only nine to play, and the New York Giants. It will be the key contest of the campaign, since a victory for the Giants will leave them only one game in the arrears and a defeat will eliminate them also beyond the peradventure of the mathematical "if."

In other words, they do or they don't this afternoon and the Giants knowing that, in their case, don't means won't, will stake their all on the performance of Fred Fitzsimmons, perhaps the best pinch hitter with the outfit. The "cards" knowing that don't will mean further doubt for them, will counter with Clarence Mitchell, the only left hander in existence who pitches with his salivary gland. If Clarence can't do it, then the Card will almost have to concede that it isn't in them.

Predict 55,000 Crowd.

Clear and cooler was the weather forecast for the great moment of a great campaign and, with the memory before them of the Giants' rabbit-out-of-the-hat victory in the second game on Thursday, the turnstiles will be in for a terrible beating. It is expected that the populace will attend almost in a body, exceeding the 55,000 capacity of the park and overflowing into the streets, where they will be able to hear a very good ball game.

Two days ago, the second game and the pennant were as good as won for the Cardinals and, if this had come to pass, they would have gone out there today and played their game in the cloistered privacy demanded by retired heavyweights. But generosity got the better of them.

"You take the ball game," they said, in effect.

"All right," said the Giants as one who goes out of his way to do a favor, "we will." And they did. If McKee is looking for a club house motto today, the writer suggests the motto about the inadvisability of giving the genius sucker an even break.

Pitchers' Battle Looms.

A victory then would have meant a four-game lead more than a possibility that by tonight this would have been five. For Mitchell, picked up out of the used parts department for his ability to harass the Giants, can and does achieve this effect at the slightest notice or even less.

The Giants pulled one out of the hat on him in St. Louis during the

Bookies Hesitate On Yanks

Hugmen Apparently on Road to Another Pennant.

By LES CONKLIN.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—While the Yankees, two games in front of the Athletics with only nine more to play, are apparently on the road to another pennant, the bookies aren't yet ready to pay off on an outfit that blew a 13-game lead this summer and has fallen to pieces on previous western trips.

New York's leading pitchers are getting shellacked quite regularly in the west, as a matter of fact. It was old Tom Zachary, a second stringer with Washington a few weeks ago, who turned back the White Sox yesterday and insured a 5 to 2 victory by clouting a home run with one on base. The Yanks got only seven hits in all off Adkins.

All the pitching aces of the various contenders are finding the going tough. Hoy and Pipgras of the Yanks were beaten Thursday, as were Benton of the Giants and Alexander of the Cardinals, and Lefty Grove of the Athletics got his yesterday. Homers by Rice and Stone of Detroit scored seven runs. The A's couldn't do much to Elam Van Gilder and the Tigers won, 9 to 4.

The Cubs dropped back to four games behind the Cardinals and out of the pennant picture when Neftali Feliz forced in the winning run, Vance yielded only two singles, one in the first inning and one in the ninth.

The dazzer whiffed eleven men, increasing his season's mark to 193. His ambition to reach the 200 mark this year will do the Cardinals practically no good when he faces them next week in his last game of the season.

The Boston Braves are getting tough too. They split another double bill with the Reds, Hornsby hitting two homers. Three double plays by the Reds gave them a major league record of 185 for the season.

The Phils dropped a 6 to 5 decision to Pittsburgh for their ninth straight defeat. Cleveland lost twice to Washington by the same score, 2 to 1, but showed two rookie pitchers of great promise, Underhill and Moore. Joey Sewell, now a third baseman, is about the only veteran in the Cleveland lineup.

TERRIS DECLARED WINNER ON FOUL

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The see-saw series between Sid Terris and Phil McGraw furnished another melodramatic thrill last night at the Coney Island stadium, when Terris was declared the winner on a foul, in the sixth round. The alleged foul was committed in the fifth round.

In the sixth Referee Tommy Sheridan, obeying a boxing commissioner's order to stop the fight, disqualified McGraw for thumbing Sid's eye in the previous round.

TUNNEY'S FIANCEE OFF FOR EUROPE

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Flushed with excitement, Mary Josephine ("Polly") Lauder sailed early today on the liner Saturnia for sunny Italy, where she and Gene Tunney will be married in the near future.

Breaking her long silence on the subject of her engagement to the retired heavyweight champion, the $50,000 heiress declared before leaving that she was the "happiest girl in the world."

AT TOLEDO: Johnny O'Keefe, featherweight, Columbus, won a newspaper decision over Ted Henry, Chicago (10).

Nebraskans Loom as Good Grid Wager

Missouri Also Has Bright Outlook This Fall.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Nebraska and Missouri are the two best bets in the Missouri valley for the coming football season this year, though Iowa State and Kansas will be about fair, and Lindsey at Oklahoma has a great team in the offing.

Bo McMillan who succeeds Charles Bachman at the Kansas Aggies will no doubt take at least a year to get his system established. The same might be said for Bill Hargiss who comes to Kansas for the first time.

Workman at Iowa State is displaying real ability as a coach, notwithstanding the fact that his material is just ordinary. Iowa State is being regarded in the light of a dark horse. Anything can happen when Iowa

Eagles Match Norman and Tomosky for Main Fight.

First of the series of fall boxing shows under the auspices of the East Liverpool Athletic club will be held in the Eagles temple, Broadway, Monday night, October 8, it was announced today.

The main bout will be between Tony Norman, Pittsburgh and Andy Tomosky, Wilmering, Pa. They will weigh in at 120 pound each. This will be an eight-round exhibition.

The semi-final match, six rounds will be between George Compton, Beaver Falls, and Johnny Bass, Steubenville. The pair are evenly matched in weight, tipping the scales at 130.

Two four-round preliminary matches are also slated. One will be between Freddie Edwards, Chester, and Ivo Anthony, East Liverpool. The other preliminary will bring together Kenney Davis, East Liverpool and Eddie Caruso, Midland.

farmer lads develop into football players.

Dr. Sharp of Yale comes to Washington university and "Bunk" Anderson of Notre Dame goes to St. Louis university. Both of them are trying to whip football teams in to shape at colleges where the game has been at lowest ebb for many years.

Marquette university will turn out its usual strong team this year. There is no question that at the end of the season Marquette will rank with the best in the country.

Ohio Wesleyan, Coe, Butler, Michigan State and Carlton are expected to upset some of the big teams this fall.

YANKEES GET TWO-GAME LEAD

The Athletics, two games behind the Yankees in the American league race, must capture seven of their eight remaining games to grab the pennant if the Yankees win five out of nine. If the Yanks win seven out of nine they will clinch the pennant. The standing: Games to

FINALLY READY

By Quinn Hall.

To some the melancholy days may be here, but to a good many it's only the season when the dull thud of heavy boots against an inflated pigskin is heard around the college campus. There's nothing melancholy about the days whatever.

In nearly every school and college in the country the booting and passing is now in full swing, which indicates that the footballers are preparing for certain deeds which are to be perpetrated on various gridirons during October 9 and November.

The tackling dummies are all togged out in new khaki breeches, and the coaches are going into daily huddles with their charges, hoping to start the season off with a win and praying to follow through with a long string of victories. The liniment bottle is handy on the shelf and youthful doctors are beginning to act more hopefully. Such is the set-up of the situation just before the first battle.

This year the rules vary only slightly from those which were in vogue during last season. The goal posts still will stand ten yards behind the end of the actual playing field, and it looks as if they will remain there permanently.

The three important changes are:

1. A backward or lateral pass must be tossed at least two yards to be classed as such, and it may be recovered, but not advanced, by the defensive side if grounded, thus doing away with the protection afforded under the rules last year to hidden ball and other trick passes behind the line of scrimmage.

2. Either a muff or a fumble of a punt may be recovered by the receiving side, but not advanced beyond the line of recovery.

3. No player on the side making a forward pass who has crossed the line of scrimmage may interfere with an opponent until the ball has been touched, thereby doing away with what the Rules Committee believes has been unfair blocking and checking to screen the pass receiver by players who themselves are not eligible to receive the pass.

As in recent years there will be many interesting intersectional battles. West Point, as is customary, leads the East in this respect. Five of the cadets' nine opponents hail from distant points. They are: Southern Methodist, De Pauw; Notre Dame, Carleton and Nebraska. Princeton, Syracuse and Colgate are listed for the 20 East versus Middle West games, four will involve Big Ten Col-ference elevens. Notre Dame will figure in four more of the events, while Nebraska will mix with the East on three occasions. These games, together with the tilt between Missouri and N. Y. U., lead the intersectional list in importance.

November 3 is one of the big intersectional days. On that date Pennsylvania meets Chicago at Chicago, while at Columbus, Ohio, Princeton will battle with Ohio State. The following week will see Navy trying to get revenge from Michigan for last year's defeat. This game is to be played at the Stadium in Baltimore. Dartmouth and Northwestern will play at Chicago November 24.

These four games should have a direct bearing on the final reckoning at the close of the season.

As usual, Notre Dame will meet its full quota of the country's leading representatives in the gridiron sport, and on four Saturdays they are booked to book up with such worthy opponents as Navy, Penn State, Army and Carnegie Tech. Nebraska, always an eminent foe, meets Syracuse, Pittsburgh and the Army.

"Clear the way! There are a lot of 'five yards to go' and the season is almost upon us. Hurry along that world's series and let's get set.

Romance in New York

By GILBERT ROGERS

Of course meeting Adrian Martin didn't matter. In a way she was curious . . . but—to flirt with him, lead him on! And that was what Shevlin had asked. She wouldn't, she couldn't!

"I don't mind his liking me, of course," she told herself, looking into the mirror! Friday evening, before going to Mrs. Drake's dance. "But trying to make him like me! No, I won't do that. I'll just meet him, and he'll probably hate me, and I'll tell Dan Shevlin that."

Adrian Martin was certain to be at Mrs. Drake's dance, for Mrs. Drake ruled the social colony, and the dinner and dance with which she opened the season was like a roll call of the elite.

"What those people you were asking about the other day, those rascals, would give to be invited!" Carliotta exclaimed. "This is really your first smart affair. All ready, darling?"

Carliotta looked so gay and lovely, and yet her loveliness only set out the simplicity and delicate curves of Sally's oval face. They drove to the big Drake house, augmented before scrooped iron gates, stepped into a great hall that had the treasures of a palace in it. "Like lying in New York Astor Library," Sally thought.

Tall columns going up to an immense ceiling with polychrome carving, Chinese rugs that stretched endlessly, footmen in the lower hallway, Mrs. Drake, a little old woman with white, piled hair, all in black, receiving with blank, cold eyes, a blank, cold smile.

Sally shivered. "Carliotta, I must be common . . . I'd rather live in a tenement."

"Sh! Someone will hear you. . . What a crowd! Oh, there's Mabel Bradon . . . I must speak to her. . ."

Across the wide floor, great doorways opened upon a ballroom, and in a kind of balcony an orchestra was playing. People were dancing under the crystal lights, hung as if in a theatre. Sally nodded to a boy she had met, and then was dancing with him.

He talked of golf in a husky voice while he danced, and then left her to mix herself a highball. . . Groups here and there chatted together, or men and women sat in attitude of tension, speaking rapidly and in low voices, that proclaimed that they were about to be lovers, or had ceased to be.

Men with decorations and foreign faces, diplomats, officers, old men with shrewd eyes who looked as if they ruled a bank with each finger, women of all ages, tired and wise, with seeking, restless faces.

Carliotta had disappeared. Sally stole away. She didn't want to dance now. She felt uncomfortable in this elaborate place. She passed a long refectory table, where cold lobsters, pate de foies-gras, and innumerable things lay temptingly, yet tempting no one.

Tubby Wells had left town, Carliotta had told her. She was glad of that. She did not ever want to see him again. As for Adrian Martin, . . . all she could hardly find him in this crowd, and Carliotta had disappeared. She would tell Shevlin she hadn't been able to meet him.

A man was standing near one of the columns, with folded arms, smoking a thin panatella. His head had a de k, swarthy look which his immaculate evening white and black heightened. It was a heavy head, with heavy eyelids, a large, humorous mouth. He looked as if he had been born tired.

She met his eyes, and passed on. Then wandered by herself in a billiard room, and found she was alone. She sat down and began to think of Jerry.

All at once the man she had noticed sauntered in, nodded to her with a little smile, and rolled back the gold and scarlet drapery that covered the table. He selected a cue, and without a word began to practice some shots. Sally watched him without speaking. Somehow she felt amused, as if he were giving her a special entertainment. He made an excellent shot.

"What about that?" he asked, turning. His voice was casual but rich and heavy. There was no doubt he had fascination.

"Awfully good," she admitted.

"He put down his cue deliberately. "Would you mind telling me what you are doing in here all alone? Whom are you running away from?"

"I don't know," said Sally, adding with sudden frankness, "unless it's Adrian Martin."

"I haven't met him yet. I don't want to meet him."

"He's not such a bad fellow."

"Oh, I suppose men might like him."

"He has some reason for thinking women do also. His three ex- 'ves could furnish excellent testimonials."

"I am. I'm his best friend."

"Really?"

"Yes. You see, I am Adrian Martin."

CHAPTER 19.

After a moment's bewildered stare, Sally gave a short laugh of embarrassment.

"Why didn't you tell me?" she asked.

"I had hopes of hearing some good of myself," he answered.

She looked at him critically. He was unlike anything she had heard of or expected, and yet he wasn't. Under his heavy lids, his eyes might have been Oriental. He looked like somebody who had given himself up to pleasure cynically, as if he did not know the meaning of hesitation or remorse.

"I don't know why you expected to meet me," he went on, after a pause, "but I'd like to know why you didn't want to meet me."

You couldn't hurt a man like that, you couldn't treat him like other men. Sally's gift of frankness came to her.

"Because you've got a perfectly awful reputation," she said, cheerfully.

He lifted his eyebrows in mock surprise. "But that's the very reason why women do want to meet me," he insisted.

"Well, I'm different."

"They all are. Do you know, you're almost as pretty as you think you are."

"I don't thin. I'm pretty," Sally flared indignantly.

"Every woman does. If she didn't, she'd commit suicide immediately."

He looked so bored, so tired. Sally wanted to be angry, tried to be angry, but could only smile. "He's horrid and conceited," she thought, "but then he is funny. And I suppose he has a right to be conceited."

He was looking down, smiling to himself. "Living up to a bad reputation is sometimes harder than living up to a good one," he murmured. "Now I suppose, you expected I was the sort of man who'd invite you to this place, order champagne, lock the door, throw the key out the window? Do you know, just for once it would give me pleasure to be as dull—as you seem to want me to be. Do me a favor. Break away from this place. Come home with me. Let me prove to you and myself that I can have a quiet chat with a woman without behaving like a confounded actor in a movie."

"Thanks. I can imagine it all perfectly."

"Ah, I see you believe me. You believe I would be dull and naturally you'd rather stay here."

He half sauntered to the door. "Charming little talk. Miss—don't know your name. But I'd only forget it anyway."

She did feel angry at him then, she did want to say something that would be scathing, even to a man as protected as this. But the next instant something happened which changed the entire course of things.

"I'll go home alone," he murmured. "Go home and think about my mines in South America. They're more interesting than this—this kind of thing. By George, I think I'll go down there again with young Evesham."

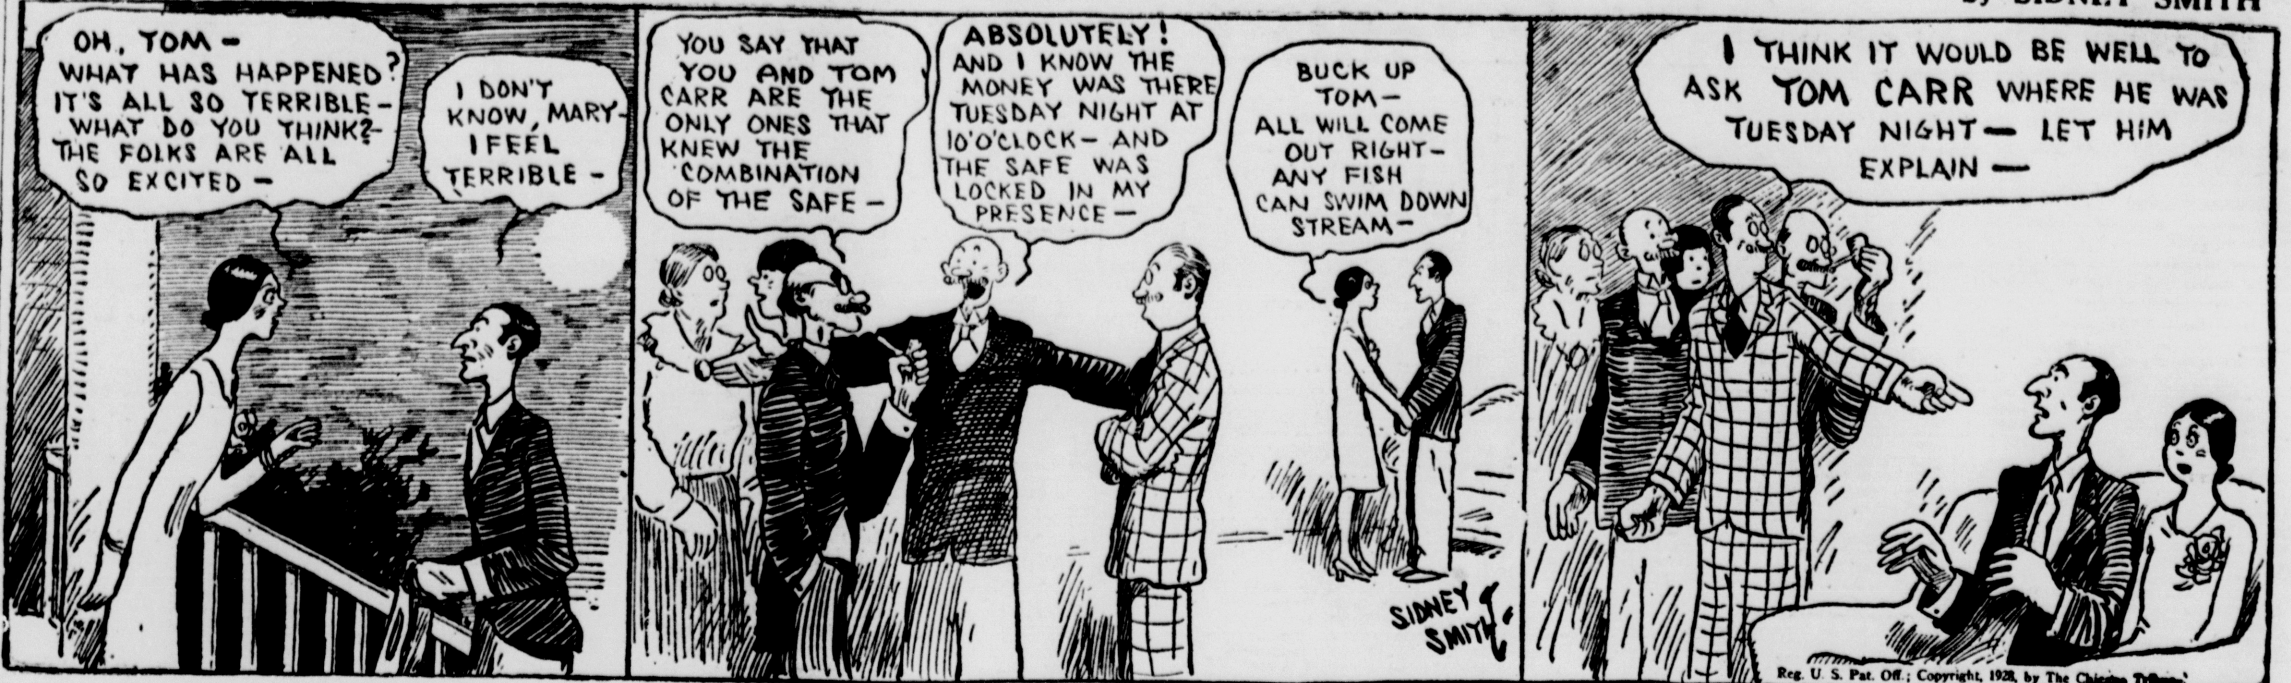

"What? What did you say?"

He turned, and his laz, glance flickered over her for a minute, taking in her suddenly brightened eyes, her lips half red.

"Evesham. Jerry Evesham. A young fellow I hire for a thing to run one of the smaller mines between revolutions."

A GRIPPING DRAMA OF LIFE, LOVE, HATE!
From the ends of the Earth—into the fever-infected Tampico oil swamp, four men, rough and masterful, and one woman, gentle, lovely and fastidious, are drawn. Hate and love. The fate of a helpless woman in the balance. Life stripped of its pretence. George Bancroft of "Underworld," the master in a primitive, powerful drama.

HOSPITAL PATIENT, BLAMING HUSBAND FOR ILL HEALTH, SUES FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Grace Weigand, Salem, Charges Gustave M. Weigand Beat and Choked Her With Strap.

LISBON, O., Sept. 22.—Mrs. Grace Weigand, now a patient in the Salem hospital, has filed a petition for divorce in common pleas court against her husband, Gustave M. Weigand, 90 West Green street, Salem. The petition charges that she is confined as a patient because of the treatment she received from her husband.

The petition, filed by Attorney K. L. Coburn of Salem, discloses that the couple were married at Lisbon, Dec. 12, 1914 and have four children, from 12 to three years in age.

Weigand is charged with gross neglect of duty, habitual drunkenness, associating with other women and extreme cruelty.

Bones in Nose and Jaw Broken. According to the petition, Mrs. Weigand left her home at Salem because of the actions of her husband and went to live with a sister at East Palestine. On Sept. 17th Weigand went to his wife and promised that he would reform. She then accompanied him to Salem at 4 o'clock in the morning, and en route he drove the automobile off the road and told the plaintiff he expected to kill her, she alleges. The petition relates that he then took a strap with a buckle and beat and choked the plaintiff, and then dragged her with the strap around her neck until she was unconscious.

On previous occasions Weigand is charged with kicking, choking and breaking the bones in the nose and jaw of the plaintiff.

Two Decrees Granted. On the grounds of extreme cruelty, Mrs. Alta Mae Mennert from her husband, John F. Mennert. The plaintiff has been restored to her maiden name, Alta Mae Kelly.

Earnest Hood has been divorced from his wife, Leah Hood, on the grounds of gross neglect of duty.

Three divorces and one alimony action have been dismissed by the court for lack of prosecution and at the costs of the plaintiff. They are: James B. Cessna against Mary E. Cessna, Irene M. Vaughn against Leonard C. Vaughn, Dora Bailey against Floyd Bailey's alimony, and Pauline Silea against Burson Silea.

Through her counsel, H. H. Hickling of Salem, Anna Hatzagan has filed a petition for divorce against her husband, Nick Hatzagan, of 75 Woodlawn avenue, Salem. Extreme cruelty is made a ground of the action.

The plaintiff seeks a decree, alimony and the custody of their minor child.

Five Rulings Made By Court.

A motion to dismiss the appeal has been overruled in the case of E. L. Grate of Salem against Martin McGregor and Clarence Wright.

In the replevin action of E. E. Vogel against Wilbur Fultz, a motion to secure the costs has been overruled by the court because the plaintiff has given a replevin bond.

A motion to the application for temporary alimony has been withdrawn in the case of Ollie B. Weber against Stephen L. Weber. This is a divorce cause.

Because George Sharp is unable to serve as a commissioner in the partition case filed by Alice Sharp against Harry R. Hogue and others, the court has appointed S. L. Smith.

The court has granted leave to Mary Summers to file an answer and cross petition by Oct. 1 in the partition action filed by Nicholas Barth against Anthony Barth.

Suit for $3,182 Dismissed.

The suit of the Harmony Electric company, filed against the village of Columbiana, July 11, 1927, to recover $3,182.44 and interest on an account, has been dismissed on the motion of the plaintiff.

Judgment for $1,289 Rendered.

In the case of C. S. Ward, administrator of the estate of James A. Ward, against George J. Leeger, a judgment for $1,289.15 and costs has been rendered in favor of the plaintiff. A decree of foreclosure and an order of sale have been entered.

"WINGS" OPENS RUN ON MONDAY

Ceramic Offers Story of Air Fighting in World War.

A notable attraction opening a three-day run at the Ceramic theatre tomorrow night will be "Wings," the first de luxe Paramount production of our fighting air forces in the World's war. It is the mighty drama of war high up among the fleecy clouds of the azure firmament enacted by men who were themselves war fliers.

There is a love story that might have happened in your own home neighborhood combined with the hazards of aviation in a thrilling spectacle. Not since D. W. Griffith's "The Birth of a Nation" which produced such stars as Wallace Reid, Lillian Gish, Dorothy Gish, Miriam Cooper and Henry B. Walthal, has a picture been so instrumental in bringing stardom to a group of young players as has "Wings." Paramount's gripping drama of the aces of aviation.

This is the first time in history in the cinema amusement world that we are to get a real and vital close-up view of the fierce and fascinating field in present day human activity—aviation. Here one will be able to see for oneself just what makes flying tick, how it feels to soar amid the clouds, fight thousands of feet in the air in a fearless mode of cavaliers not of earth but of the heavens. This is all revealed with telling, thrilling effect in "Wings."

Ever since the first daring aviator left the ground, flying has been virtually a closed book to the laymen. The sky-men have been a race apart, glimpsed only in the blue distance. A bird he was and a bird he seemed to the land lubber.

In this youngest of all artistic casts are such notables as Charles Rogers, Clara Bow, Richard Arlen, Jobyna Ralston, El Brendel, Julia Swayne, Gordon, "Gunboat" Smith, Hedda Hopper, Gary Cooper, Richard Tucker, Henry B. Walthal, George Irving, Arlette Marchal and Nigel de Brulier.

The presentation will be identical with that now running at the Criterion theatre, New York, with all the stage settings, accessories, stage effects and musical symphony ensemble.
